

STREAM-FLOW Method

26 - 27 feb 2022

A unique and constantly evolving tool for dancers using visual imagery and tactile exercises to help release the body and heighten awareness on many levels.

The workshop is a collaboration between Dansalliansen and Danscentrum Väst.

"Heidi's stream - flow method has an intuitively progressive guidance that allows me to discover a sense of full body freedom and interconnection. Through imagery and sensation it provides an in-depth look at how each part of the body, when examined clearly and simply, can be a catalyst for naturally occurring, complex movement. After taking the class, I feel new movement channels open in my body and a heightened awareness for what it means to be fully present in my own movement research." // A description of Stream-Flow classes from dancer Scott Fowler

The participants will be focusing on everyday tasks and habitual movement patterns with a stream-flow twist. Stream Flow Method
