Queer Movements and Ephemeral Memorials

17 maj 2024

Guided by trans* dancer and choreographer Alex Blum, we invite you to join a workshop for the speculative exploration of queer movements and ephemeral memorials.

We will be working with the archives of Nordic queer liberation, for instance the history of the Danish Gay Liberation Front and their activism against the so-called ‘Dance Ban’, which for decades forbade same-sex couples from dancing together in the public sphere. Through touch-based body work, improvisation, collective mind-mapping and critical fabulation, we’ll embody a research of the queer potentials and politics of the dancing body. Everybody is welcome, but this is a space meant to celebrate lived experiences of queerness and transness, so show up with an intention to amplify queer joy. Spoken language will be in English.
Trans* choreographer Alex Blum (DK/NL) invites us into their research archive with small queer movements towards critical fabulation. In this work sharing, alex will share excerpts and reflect upon their artistic research series PÅ TRODS, which seeks performative methods to commemorate queer movements in both history and futures.
